

NORFACE | WELFARE STATE FUTURES THEMATIC WORKSHOP

Welfare and Migration: thematic workshop and masterclass on the interrelation between welfare arrangements and migration

The Hague (the Netherlands), March 16-17, 2017

Preliminary Program

Wednesday March 15

19.00 Dinner with the presenters/ participants of the masterclass and PIs attending the parallel workshop

Thursday March 16

9.00 Welcome coffee

9.30-10.00 Introduction to the masterclass workshop by Helga de Valk, PI of the MobileWelfare project and organizer of the meeting

10.00-11.00 Presentation of the main projects on welfare and migration in the NORFACE-WELFARE STATE FUTURES program by their respective PIs

MIFARE	Marcel Lubbers
TransJudFare	Susanne Schmidt
TRANSWEL	Anna Amelina
UPWEB	Jenny Phillimore
MobileWelfare	Helga de Valk

11.00-11.15 coffee break

11.15-12.30 Keynote lecture and Q&A masterclass leader 1

Prof. A. Adserà, Princeton University

12.30-13.30 lunch

13.30-15.30 Presentations by PhD students/postdocs with feedback by senior scholar and discussion by junior scholars

Maarja Saar

Managing EU borders on a grass-root level: Strategies for accessing social security by Estonian migrants in Sweden

Kick-off Discussant: Bozena Sojka

Jeanette Renema

Immigrants' knowledge on welfare access and attitudes toward welfare spending: A study among 10 immigrant groups in the Netherlands

Kick-off Discussant: Petra de Jong

Henrik Andersson

Immigrant Firms and Neighboring Networks

Kick-off Discussant: Simone Castellani

Katarzyna Andrejuk

Welfare perceptions and welfare practices of immigrants in Poland: methodological and substantive issues

Kick-off Discussant: Dion Kramer

Parallel workshop of the PI's of the projects engaged in discussion on migration and the welfare state

15.30-16.00 Coffee break

16.00-17.30 Presentations by PhD students/postdocs with feedback by senior scholar and discussion by junior scholars

Dominique Jolivet

Towards a contextualized theorization of welfare and migration

Kick-off Discussant: Florian Zabransky

Simone Castellani

Is "Welfare Society" suitable for migrants? Health protection and migration in Portugal during the economic crisis

Kick-off Discussant: Bruno Machado

Pawel Kaczmarczyk

Burden or relief? Pre- and post-conflict Ukrainian migration and its fiscal impacts on Poland

Kick-off Discussant: Alicia Adsera

17.30 Closing remarks

18.30 Dinner

Friday, March 17

8.30-10.30 Presentations by PhD students/postdocs with feedback by senior scholar and discussion by junior scholars

Dion Kramer

Administering the Needy EU Citizen: the Impact of ECJ case law on National Welfare State Bureaucracy

Kick-off Discussant: Maarja Saar

Bruno Machado

Migration and welfare strategies between Portugal and the UK: Incorporating settlement, return and non-migrant perspectives

Kick-off Discussant: Henrik Andersson

Bozena Sojka

Transnational temporality of belonging

Kick-off Discussant: Dominique Jolivet

Florian Zabransky

Intra-EU Mobility, Social Security Rights and Portability: Towards Profiles of Inclusion and Exclusion within the European Social Security Coordination System

Kick-off Discussant: Katarzyna Andrejuk

10.30-11.00 coffee break

11.00-12.00 Keynote lecture and Q&A masterclass leader 2

Prof. Jean-Michel Lafleur, University of Liège

12.00-13.00 lunch

13.00-15.00 Workshop: Stakeholder Communication for PhD students and postdocs only led by Susanne Maris

15.00-15.30 coffee break

15.30-16.30 Presentations by PhD students/postdocs with feedback by senior scholar Prof. Harry van Dalen (NIDI) and discussion by junior scholars

Petra de Jong

Differences in Received Welfare within European countries and Life Course Characteristics of Migrants

Kick-off Discussant: Hidde Bekhuis

Hidde Bekhuis

Who benefits? Perceptions of what migrant groups are seen as benefitting from the welfare state among nine migrant groups and natives in the Netherlands and Denmark.

Kick-off Discussant: Simone Schneider

16.30

closing of the meeting

Information about Lectures, masterclass leaders and workshop holders

Alicia Adserà

Alicia Adserà is Research Scholar and Lecturer in Economics and International Affairs at the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs and at the Office of Population Research at Princeton University. Her interests are in economic demography, development and international political economy. Some of her recent work focuses on how differences in local labor market institutions and economic conditions are related to fertility and household formation decisions in the OECD (and Latin America). In addition she is interested in an array of migration topics (i.e. immigrant fertility; the relevance of language, political conditions and welfare provisions among the determinants of migration flows; the wellbeing of child migrants; differential labor market performance of migrants across European countries). Before coming to Princeton, she was a tenured Associate Professor at the University of Illinois at Chicago, a Research Affiliate at the Population Research Center of the University of Chicago, and taught previously at Ohio State University and Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona. Her work has been published in the American Economic Review, P&P, Journal of Population Economics, Population Studies, Journal of Law Economics and Organization, and International Organization among others.

Jean-Michel Lafleur

Jean-Michel Lafleur is the Associate Director of the Centre d'Études de l'Éthnicité et des Migrations (CEDEM) and a Research Associate at the Belgian Fund for Scientific Research (FRS-FNRS). He also teaches different courses on Migration at the Faculty of Social Sciences of the University of Liège. Jean-Michel's areas of expertise are the transnational dimension of contemporary migration, EU mobility, social protection and the political participation of immigrants. He currently holds a Starting Grant from the European Research Council (ERC) to work on a project entitled "Migration and Transnational Social Protection in Post-crisis Europe". He holds a joint PhD in Political Science and International Relations from Sciences Po in Paris and the University of Liège. His publications include articles in Democratization, Migration Studies, Ethnic and Racial Studies, Journal of Ethnic and Migration Studies, and his book on Transnational Politics and the State: The External Voting Rights of Diasporas (Routledge, 2013).

Susanne Maris

Susanne Maris is an experienced trainer and coach, specialized in talent development of high potentials in higher education. Being certified by the Career Management Institute, she works in the top league of coaches in the Netherlands. Also, she is frequently asked by universities to design and lead innovative education projects. In 2003, Susanne graduated in Clinical Psychology as well as Work & Organizational Psychology from the University of Amsterdam. In 2007 Susanne graduated from the Geneva University of Art and Design.

How to communicate about your research with stakeholders

As a researcher you work in an academic environment and share your research with like-minded experts who have roughly the same perspective. However, reaching out to stakeholders who may see things from a different angle asks for another way of presenting your findings.

Your work might be of interest to other parties. It might offer a solution to a problem they experience. You may profit from collaborating with them. The lingo of academic research, however, can pose a barrier.

How to present your work to stakeholders

- so they understand just enough?
- so they become willing to collaborate?
- so they'll remember your work and can explain it to others?

A strong presentation of your work to relevant stakeholders can help you make a difference in the world.

In this interactive workshop you'll work on your very own stakeholder pitch. Practice makes perfect, so we'll start pitching right away. Valuable feedback from the trainer and your peers gives you the opportunity to further enhance your personal presentation. Be prepared to learn how to show people the best version of yourself and your work.